$14 PER PATIENT, SANATORIUM COST

Wauwatosa Charges $15 Weekly for Those Able to Pay—Building Is Filled.

At the Milwaukee sanatorium, Wauwatosa, Wis., the per capita cost is approximately $14 a week, according to Dr. Charles E. Ide, superintendent. The charge to those able to pay is $15 a week. "If upon investigation a patient cannot pay $15 a week but can pay something, the rate is made $7 a week," writes the superintendent. "The amount received by the state, which is $7 a week, does not cover the cost of caring for the patients. We have no patients at present from Rock county, in fact the demand for beds in this institution with its capacity for 350 is so great that about 200 are on our board of trustees instructed us not to accept any applications from residents of other counties," reads the statement.

State Has No Control

A letter from the board of control shows that this state body does not exercise any control over the building of a county sanatorium, except that the state laws provide that before the building of a sanatorium, the plans and specifications must be approved by the state board of control.

Little Room Left

In all instances, sanatorium authorities reported the state paid $7 a week to the support of tubercular patients making application for treatment. Each succeeding legislature has the power to pass appropriate laws to cover tubercular patients and can change the rates as the cost demands.

DOCTORS WARNED TO GUARD STATEMENTS ON PROHIBITION LAW

Milwaukee—James A. Stone, federal prohibition commissioner, has issued a warning to doctors to keep their opinions of the Volstead act and national prohibition to themselves. "If any doctor saying that the national prohibition cannot be enforced, I will call in his book of prescriptions for examination," said Mr. Stone. "Such a declaration would indicate that something may be wrong with the book."

New Methodist Pastor Given Warm Welcome

A royal welcome was given by members of the Carville Methodist church to their new pastor, Rev. C. E. Stone, Sunday morning when they crowded the auditorium to capacity and made necessary the opening up of the Sunday school. Mr. Stone is a convincing speaker, of strong, forceful methods and attractive personality. He has a kindly smile and is a confirmed optimist. The statement made in his sermon, "that God has larger things in store for this church, than we have ever dreamed of," shows that he is prepared to back up his optimism.

WORK OF EAGLES LAUDED BY

O'Donnell Says F. O. E. Leads All Orders in Helping "Other Fellow"

"There's not a man, woman or child in this audience listening to me today who came from a poorer family than I did," declared Judge Thomas O'Donnell, Kansas City, the silver-tongued orator of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, to an audience of 100 at Eagles' hall here, Sunday afternoon.

15 Million in Benefits

"I'm one of those who remain of the 'old guard,' traveling among the brothers, I was present when the Eagles first started. It wasn't the Eagles then. A bunch of us fellows had formed a club called the 'Good Fellows,' and from that day on, 'Good Fellows' was the name. It has been their good work far and wide, not among the rich, but among the poor and needy, practicing these many other motives—'Clothe the poor, feed the hungry and bury the dead.'"

Old Work-Turn Nations

"I've seen things that would turn the heart of a man made of stone. We people of America little know this, which the church has been doing since mother try to force new, fish down the mouths of their young ones, so that they might sustain life a little longer. I have seen men, roots, grind them up, and make bread out of them, thinking God they had them. We should not turn our backs on these people, but help them, and that is the work of the Eagles and during the World War, 1400 members of the Eagles lost their lives, and $1,551,000 was paid in insurance policies for these deaths. This is a small part of some of the good work the Eagles are doing."

SOLDIER BONUS TO COME BY DIRECT TAXATION, BELIEF

come eventually from the payments by foreign governments of the interest and principal of their war debt. If, instead, the soldiers get it, this means that the federal government would have to keep on borrowing from the American people by regular bond issues and would not be able to reduce the tax burden for a generation to come.

Clear of Allied Debt

The tendency, therefore, will be to steer clear of the allied war debt and find some other means of settling the bonus. The sales tax has executive sympathy, though, not full approval as yet, because it means the inauguration of a new system of taxation by the federal government, which will eventually make it possible to do away with the present levies of the revenue act, especially on corporations, and give the government power to raise money in any way it chooses for the annual budget. Some of the champions of the sales tax are so ardently in favor of it that they actually welcome the soldier bonus as a way to demonstrate the expediency of this new method of taxation.

WHIST AND "500" IN CITY SCHOOLS? BOARD IS NEUTRAL

Declaring that he deems it far better for the married and single people of the city, who have been playing 30 and 60 years of life, to play cards than to play the "foolish games of drop the handkerchief and sliding down the slide," the committee on education at its meeting Saturday night for an expression of opinion as to whether or not it was proper to use a school building for a motion picture machine for the school.

Industrial Life Should Be Tied Up with Education

FARMERS, CITY MEN IN JOINT MEETING

Twilight Club Banquet, Tuesday, Important in Rock's Farm History.

By the importance of agriculture meetings being held throughout Rock county this month, January is going down in farm history. Some of the speakers on the Twilight club program here Tuesday night are of such note in agriculture that they have been invited to the conference with Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, the latter part of the month to select a constructive program for farming.

Rock county is peculiarly fortunate in having in the near future, farm meetings of considerable significance. One of these meetings occurs at the regular agriculture program of the Twilight club and subjects to be discussed in this meeting will also be considered at the state and national meetings later.

Noted Men Speakers.
With such men as George McKernow and H. W. Mumford on the program, the Twilight club, true to its principles, is fostering a meeting of importance to the community. The meeting to be attended by other state officials, will have a state influence.

President McKernow heads the largest farm organization of the state and is responsible for guiding a state farm policy. H. W. Mumford as chairman of the Farmers' Market, is a director of the Illinois agricultural association, might be called the father of the livestock cooperative shipping plan, which has been worked out for national participation. He will tell just what is needed to prevent farm conditions, just what the status of the marketing plan is, what it means to the nation, to Rock county and how this state and county fit into the proposed system.

In some of the states there has been agitation to reduce the acreage of some of our cereal crops. It being argued that by this means the price for these cereals would be sent up. Other agricultural interests do not entirely agree with this logic, arguing that any such increase might not be noted by the farmers themselves and that the present agricultural situation is not one of over-production, but one of under marketing.

Important Questions.
These are very important questions to be decided by some judgment, rather than be rushed into impulsively, because the present agricultural situation is partly a result of an evolution that has been progressing for a number of years and any program worthy of full support must be one so fundamentally sound and constructive that it takes into consideration a period of years rather than simply relief for a few months.

The Twilight club will sit down to supper at 8:30. It is to be hoped the talks which follow will lead to a live discussion of the tangible things that Rock county can do immediately. The Twilight club is anxious for a large attendance of farmers. Tickets will be on sale at the Y. M. C. A. until Monday. The price of these tickets covers cost of the supper only. It is necessary for the club to know by Monday evening how many non-members will attend.

PLACE BIBLES IN ALL HOTELS HERE

175 Books Pledged for City at Jubilee Rally of Gideons.

Through the efforts of a week-end campaign, carried on by the hotel and restaurant owners of Janesville, 175 Bibles will be placed in the hotels and restaurants of this city. The Gideons, a national organization formed in this city 22 years ago, a banquet attended by prominent citizens of Janesville, and by local members and supporters was held at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night, a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, and at the Methodist church, Sunday night.

A total of 175 Bibles were pledged for Janesville, 40 Bibles were placed at a morning meeting held at the Scotch Presbyterian church at Rock Prairie, 50 at the afternoon meeting at the Y. M. C. A. and the remainder of the quota in the evening.

was further asserted, segregate their tubercular patients. An average profit of $200 on each patient, out of the $34.50 annual maintenance cost paid by the government, was shown in figures for the nine institutions of the state, cited in the memorial as recently having been made public by Dr. H. S. MacAfee, director of the state welfare department. The profit per man ranged from $27.65 for the Athens state hospital to $220.98 for the institution for feeble minded.

"Nothing More Than Lockups." In Janesville, it was asserted, relatives are refusing to commit mentally disabled veterans, who might be restored to useful citizenship, to conditions in the "lockups," where, it was charged, the memorial said, are "nothing more than lockups."

To make adequate provision for the treatment of all mentally disabled veterans, the memorial said, the organizations urged that the president use his influence in securing early action by congress on the pending measure, to appropriate $2,000,000 for this purpose, stating the report of the special senate committee, that 4,375 more beds were urgently needed beyond what would be provided by existing appropriations.

During the two years or more before federal facilities could be increased to take care of the disabled, memorial urged that the government should "supervise" or "control" institutions be provided for by the Veterans bureau and that to co-operate in this, an independent committee in each state to service men be appointed in each state.

MEN'S CLOTHES WILL BE MORE ROOMY

IS LATEST EDIT

New York—Men's clothing during the coming year will be for the most part sober in its general design, but it will reflect a new attitude of the national association of retail clothing and the International Association of Clothing Designers, in a deal of data have digested to men's garments, having collected information through questionnaires. This year's styles will be based on the views of customers thus expressed.

A statement on the modes to be followed during the spring and summer of 1922, declared: "The sport garment has become the recognized necessity for self-art, and is being designed to be more distinctly toward outdoor life, necessitating clothes in conformity with such trend. The tendency of color will be light gray and tan in club, club, and business suits, and tweeds, which lead themselves particularly to this type of garments. Trousers will be designed along straighter lines, with larger knees and wider bottoms. The trend of the times will be toward the adoption by men of all ages of styles typical of and accepted by the younger generation. There is a growing tendency in men's clothing toward a more conservative, a trifle wider shoulder, with narrower lapels, and gorges on higher lines."

Where Japan Makes Concessions

Figures and arrows indicate points involved in Japan's latest move. Japan's delegates to the armament conference have agreed tentatively to the withdrawal of Japanese troops from Kiaochow (1), the former German leasehold, and from the district along the Tientsin-Taiwan-Railway (2). These withdrawals are contingent on China's willingness to properly police these territories.

Improve Homes and Cut Crime, Mahoney's Plea

"This idea that young men are their own bosses when they are 21 is an American idea, and a bad one," declared Rev. William Mahoney of St. Rose's church, Watertown, formerly of Janesville, in a brilliant address to the Wisconsin Dairy men's association, Sunday night.

"Young men, remember," he continued, "as long as you put your feet under your mother's roof, no matter if you're 18, 21 or 31, your dad is boss and your mother is vice-president. Dad is never wrong. He's never out of date. And remember, he's boss of you when the lights go out in the home."

Pointing to the United States as the greatest criminal nation in the world, he made a plea for betterment by beginning in the home.

The root-cause of the crime is home and a home must be guarded by these three rules—love, authority and stability," he said.

600 to punish the criminals of the United States last year and $75,000,000 to educate the children. As Christian men and women we stand together tonight violating the law."

Special programs for women have been arranged on each of the days, taking up important problems for the women on farms.

During the last year, 13,000 murders and 6,000 suicides were committed in this country. Somewhere along the line we must curb this and there is not a better place to teach than at home.

Look at France before the World War. No one would dare contradict Wallace, who said the greatest schools in the world. On the streets of France you could find students from every country, exchanging views with each other. In 1871 the population of France was 40,000,000 and in 1917 the same. France was at a standstill at the beginning of the war, and it was all due to the home," he stated.

The program was opened by short remarks by Jean J. P. Ryan. Mrs. Henry Casey gave a piano selection, which was followed by several vocal solos by Edmund Leary, accompanied by Miss Margaret Leary. He had given several vocal selections, accompanied by the harp.

REOPEN PROBE OF WAREHOUSE THEFTS

Confessions Before Edgerton Judge Basis of Further Investigation.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Fond du Lac—Further investigation of the Du Fran warehouse robbery of a year ago is being made by District Attorney Murray to determine whether or not Montello and Princeton men, involved in the deal in the confessions of Joseph and Stanley Poplawski, formerly of Edgerton, know that the Janesville Adjudgment of the hearing was made until Jan. 25, on motion of the district attorney.

Attorneys for Edgerton and R. A. Alexander, Montello salaried men, and Albert Kinas and Dr. O. P. Schetzky, Princeton, asked for the dismissal of the charges against them, which was refused. District Attorney Murray said that, if unable to get further evidence showing that the Montello and Princeton men were guilty of receiving stolen property, the attorneys would not have to appear at the adjourned hearing Jan. 25.

Result of Confessions

It is declared that proof of knowledge that the liquor was stolen would be sufficient evidence to hold them in Fond du Lac county, though they might not have entered the county until the "dark was on."

Starting of action against the men is the result of confessions secured by Judge D. W. North, Edgerton, from Stanley and Joseph Poplawski, formerly of Edgerton, now serving terms in the state's prison for burglary. The confessions tell of the robbery of the Du Fran warehouse of large quantities of whisky; they involved the Montello and Princeton men as well as several others. Both Poplawskis testified.

Build a Community Center and Convention Hall for the city. Hold public meetings, and have it belong to the whole city. This is also a part of a program to provide music and entertainment for the people the year around. Complete the city plan. Make more small parks and playgrounds and provide at least one large park where the whole people may recreate at will. Camp for auto tourists coming to Janesville. Erect a permanent memorial for the soldiers of the World War, suitable and adequate, and select and maintain a monument to the fallen American war veterans in a public place. Finish the paving of Janesville streets and complete the sewer system. Make all main highways into city of concrete to connect with good pavements in Janesville. Keep the city looking bright and clean with paint and the streets free from filth. Either build a new hotel or so increase the facilities of the present hotels as to take care of the traveling public and be able to handle conventions. Finish the high school at an early date and give the children proper educational facilities.

A NATION TIRED OF A FEW THINGS

There is a reaction in the United States against several things and it may be predicted that these are on the list to go:
Jazz music and indecent dances.
Bed room farces and sex movies.
High and fast living.
Bootleg booze and rotten home brew.
Tacky novels, risqué stories, eternal triangles.
Failure to appreciate the value of a marriage vow.
Shabby stories in society as an indication of smartness.
Laxity in social conventions.
Women's dress in imitation of Parisian Tahads.
And some others, all of which are becoming stale and wearing on the public. It is about time to turn to decency and see if it might not be made interesting.

So far the disarmament conference has said nothing about removing chips from the shoulder.

A WEEK FOR RIGHT BEGINNING.

This week is the week of thrift. It begins Tuesday, January 17 because that is Benjamin Franklin's birthday. One lays aside military heroes, adventurers and all when he takes an interest in Franklin. In fact we owe as much to Franklin as we do to Washington. This Thrift week starts at the early part of the calendar year and is a most appropriate time to begin saving. It offers an opportunity for every person in America, especially to the boys and girls.

It is well that the schools already have given considerable attention to this subject, and that next week, in many places, there will be special programs for the encouragement of thrift.

Saving money or practicing thrift in other forms is a matter of habit; to form the habit requires regular attention to the subject, not simply the attention of a particular week. The people of America are not so extravagant as they were two or three years ago; but there still is occasion for extending the thrift habit. Remember what Theodore Roosevelt said on this subject:
Extravagance robs character; train youth away from it. On the other hand, the saving of money, while it stiffens the will, also brightens the energies. If you would be sure that you are beginning right, begin to save.

Will Hays saw his duty and $150,000 and he went.

MR. MILLER TOLD THE TRUTH.

A few days ago, the secretary of the Republican national committee, Charles B. Miller died. He was a former member of congress and noted for the bluntness of his statements and the honesty of his purpose. In the face of the fact that in his district there were many members of the non-partisan league, he made a speech in 1918 noted even yet for the avowal of the non-partisan league and declaring it Socialist. Anti-archist and pro-German. Mr. Miller said: "During recent months I have covered all sections of Minnesota delivering loyalty addresses to aid the Liberty Loan, Red Cross and other war work. I have found the same thing everywhere. All pro-German elements in the State are either in the Non-partisan League or affiliated with it. When a branch of the league is organized in a locality the charter members are all the rabid pro-German members of the community. Today it is safe to say that practically all the pro-Germans in the state are members of the league or are directly affiliated with it."

Mr. Miller should have covered Wisconsin in the campaign of 1920, to discover the condition he relates, was general.

Premier Brand was a fine little old trouble hunter.

WANT 100 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR GOVERNMENT.

Crushed under a burden of taxation, of irresponsibility and inefficiency, the citizens of Sedalia, Missouri, are in an energetic campaign for city management as against the aldermanic form of government. The women's organizations and the citizens who have no axes to grind and are not feeding on special privilege or drawing salaries from the city funds, are being fought by the job lotters and franchise holders.

No one objects to taxation for municipal purposes if:

The funds are spent so that the citizens receive 100 per cent for the money paid into the treasury.

BALLOONING FOR ALL

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—That ballooning should be made a popular sport by the formation of balloon clubs in all parts of the country, and that it would be one of the safest, healthiest and most enjoyable of all sports, is the opinion of Ralph H. Upson, of the Aero Club of America.

Upson has several times represented the Aero Club in the annual Gordon Bennett Balloon Race, and he once won that event, which made him the champion balloonist of the world. He is not only an expert balloonist, but also a designer of balloons and blimps.

Upson is strongly imbued with the idea that ballooning is the world's great neglected sport, that a large part of mankind is missing a great deal of fun by not getting up in the air with a gas bag.

The general public has the idea that the airplane has forever displaced the balloon. As a matter of fact, it has left the balloon just where it was before, as one of the most amusing toys has been much but a sport, and most balloonists have no desire to make it anything else. The balloon bears the same relation to the airplane that the sailing yacht does to the steamship and motor boat.

The power boats have practically displaced the sail boats in commerce, but sail boats remain the chief recreation of many thousands.

In fact, machinery and sport do not, for the most part, go together. The commercial future undoubtedly belongs to the airplane, but it remains and long will remain a decidedly expensive and somewhat hazardous business. Sport, it would seem, had a wide appeal as sport, it would be a long time before any but the wealthy and daring few could follow it.

None of these drawbacks, according to Upson, applies to the balloon. He says that he can design a small balloon which can be sold for no more than the cost of a good passenger automobile, and which can be flown with the gas made in the city gas works. Three or four clubbing together could then go in for ballooning more cheaply than each separately could go in for motoring.

Upson and other balloonists agree that ballooning, properly carried on, is so safe that it may be called fool-proof, and they also assert that it has a fascination which must be experienced to be appreciated. Once a man has known the strange delight of rising into the rare and stimulating atmosphere above the earth and riding the air currents, they say, he is nevermore satisfied to stay on earth.

As a summer sport, a means of escaping the heat and dust that bedevil the dweller on the face of the earth, it would certainly have advantages. It is probable too that roaming among the clouds in a balloon would be much better for the nerves and the disposition than burning the bumps in a flivver. A nation of balloonists would probably be a nation of serene philosophers.

But to return to the immediate feasibility of the thing, Upson says that provided you do not try to smoke and cook in your balloon, do not deliberately stay out in violent storms, and do not try to cross large bodies of water, a balloon is one of the safest places to be. As long as you carry no fire, there is nothing to puncture your gas bag in the air, and as long as your gas bag is intact you are safe. Lightning is not a danger. You are not any more likely to be struck by lightning in a balloon than you are walking along a street, and not in as much danger as you would be standing under a tree. You can always descend gently to the earth at any time, if a storm rises.

Ballooning is primarily a study in weather. The only control which a balloonist has over his craft is gained by choosing his air currents. By going up or down a few thousand feet he can usually find a current which is going somewhere near the direction he wants to travel.

The layman whose knowledge of ballooning is usually based on having seen a so-called balloonist make an ascension at a county fair, believes that a balloonist merely blows along in almost any direction until he feels that he is getting too far from home, and then comes to earth.

As a matter of fact, the growing knowledge of the air currents, which is being gathered by balloonists, gives them a growing control over their craft, and makes ballooning a sport of high scientific skill. Indeed, its study of the upper air zones is probably the most useful thing about ballooning.

The Weather Bureau has been sending representatives to the balloon meets of the Aero Club, and Upson on his last flight carried an observer from the Weather Bureau. These scientists see in the balloon a splendid means of studying the important secrets of the atmosphere.

As information about the air currents grows, ballooning becomes less and less haphazard. The balloonist knows about where to look for the air current he wants. When he starts on a flight, it is true he must always be prepared to make a landing whenever it is necessary, and ship his balloon back home; but he also has an excellent chance, if he knows his business, to fly back under his own power. Many successful round trips, to points 50 or 60 miles away and back, have been made by balloonists. A military balloonist not long ago succeeded in flying from the flying field to his own back yard and taking his wife for a ride.

The expert balloonist in a race frequently rises to 10,000 feet, sometimes to 20,000. He dangles out over the ocean, trusting to his knowledge of the air currents to get him back. In all of these things there is no danger, and there is also in riding out thunderstorms high in the air. For a thunderstorm churns the air in a way that may bring the balloon back to earth with crushing force.

But none of these hazards are necessary. The amateur balloonist need not rise more than a few thousand feet; he can fly along, taking in the air and the scenery, until he sights a convenient railroad or trolley station near which to alight. His deflated balloon, packed into his basket, is no larger than a large trunk and weighs only a few hundred pounds. There is nothing impracticable about it, according to Upson.

Indication of good government or progress. But the taxpayer wants to know what becomes of his dollars and wants those dollars spent where there is a dollar in value for a dollar in taxes. You do not get a dollar in value for a dollar in taxes in a city government that is made up of a half dozen governments.

HORSE AND CUTTER DAYS
Winters are not what they used to be in the cities of haste and bustle.
The snow is white for a little while then turns to an ugly slush.
And the rapid wheels of the motor cars grind all of its beauty down.
But I long for the horse and cutter days we knew in the little town.

Then the world stayed white for a month or two and the snowdrifts grew big. And checks were pink with the glow of health and the joy we youngsters knew. Then sleigh bells added a merry lift to the cold and crisp air.
And youth and maid in an open sleigh were always a happy pair.

We hitched a ride to the runners strong and the snow flew from our feet.
But it's dangerous now to hitch a ride on the dark and crowded street.
And the raucous honk of the motor horn has banished the sleigh bell's song.
For winter days are cheerless now and winter nights are long.

Perhaps it's well that our customs change and good that we have new joys.
But with the stir of our newer joys are signs for the pleasures gone.
And I sometimes long for the drifted snow and the white and frosty ways.
With the cheeks of pink and the laughter gay of our horse and cutter days.

Who's Who Today

SENATOR WILLIAM E. CROW

Although he received his appointment but a few weeks ago, William E. Crow already enjoys the distinction of being the senior senator from Pennsylvania.

He was named by Governor Sprout to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Knox. Then came Senator Penrose's death. George W. Pepper succeeds Penrose, and is the Keystone State's junior senator.

While Crow is practically unknown to the country at large, Pennsylvania Republican leaders assert that he will make good on a scale commensurate with the importance of the state.

He comes from Uniontown, in Fayette county, and is on his way to a fifty-second birthday, medium young for the senate. He has a newspaper man for three years reported in season, took up the law and naturally got into politics. Since 1909 his record is a long list of chairman of this or that Republican organization, or delegate to this or that Republican convention. In the course of this party service he spent several terms at Harrisburg in the state senate. His career will be observed with peculiar interest even among many other, new members, because he comes from what keeps a man in Washington a long time. If he gets along with the powers that be, sufficiently indeed to become a power himself, as Penrose became after training under Cameron and with Matt Quay.

"The Trump on the Camel."
Coming "The Camel," in the interest of personal liberty, the annual publication with a ringing "Here's How!" and advertising patronage over a hundred pages of it. No wonder the Camel can boast of being the most popular of all the "Grand Shakes." Louis M. Kotocich concludes his humor on the little "clique of reformers," by saying:

"Unorganized, the public can be moulded and handled like jelly fish, for there is no unity in the hold it together; but organization is the thing which will rout the clouds and gloom of the long haired, holler-than-thous who are trying to cram blue laws down the throat of the State of Liberty in place of some good old fashioned beer." Or Mayor Frank Johnson of Mauston, who, shooting at Prohibition declares:
"After all it is up to the people. We can kneel as did the Chinese under the old empire and allow our heads to be chopped off, or we can have freedom of thought and act accordingly." He notes the great American pastime of "going crazy over phony issues."

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO.

Jan. 16, 1882.—Hereafter there will be two mails in Beloit, one closes at 9:10 a. m. and the other at 9:40 p. m. The change in the St. Paul schedule makes these changes possible. The revised city charter will be presented to the common council Monday night. All interested are invited to attend the meeting.

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

Jan. 16, 1892.—Horsemen in the trotting match on South Main street were nearly prosecuted yesterday when several complaints from business men reached the marshal. He discovered, however, that none were exceeding the six-mile an hour ordinance. Plans were heard by the common council last night concerning the new plan for city sewerage disposal. The city will be divided into five districts, two on the West Side and three on the East.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Jan. 16, 1902.—Debs have been abolished in the county offices and all the employees there will be put on a regular salary. The county board is meeting today. Business is slow in local tobacco circles. Some shipments have been received here this week but they have been small, and little has been shipped out.

TEN YEARS AGO.

Jan. 16, 1912.—An attempt was made today to assassinate the Chinese premier. Two men were killed by the explosion of the bomb, but the premier escaped unhurt. The Chinese form of government was discussed at a mass meeting held at the Myers theater last night. The poultry show opened at the rink yesterday.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

The traditions which ascribe blood poisoning to such impossible causes as rusty nails, dyed clothing, and "taking cold" are as impervious to light as is the famous third down in the blackened yarn about drowning casualties or escapes therefrom.

Blood poisoning is purely and solely a matter of violent or wicked or wild microbes gaining entrance to the blood, usually through some facility of greater or less severity. Doctors call it septicaemia, which is one of or beloved medical terms meaning poison in blood. It should be called bacteremia—poison in blood.

When blood poisoning happens the victim knows about it. He feels that he is coming down with something, and he is only too likely to decide he is taking or has taken cold. He has a chilly or perhaps an actual chill, and he is conscious of other symptoms very similar to the symptoms felt with the onset of most acute bacterial infections—headache, fever, malaise or vague uneasiness, with the onset of influenza, coryza, tonsillitis, and the like. At the seat of injury there is reddening, swelling and pain throbbing. A characteristic sign is a reddening streak or streaks following the lymphatic channels upward along the arm or leg if the wound is of an extremity.

Septicemia begins at any time from a few hours to 10 days or more after the wound or injury is received. Do not confuse septicemia or blood poisoning with the quick doctor term for syphilis. Syphilis is an incurable chronic disease, and is an infectious disease. These latter prefer vague terms for an obvious reason—obvious to anybody except the poor victim led to "indure" in "blood purifiers."

A fruitful cause of septicemia is the unskillful handling of "minor wounds or injuries." I said handling, not treating. A minor wound or injury is a wound which is known as aseptic care—not antiseptic. Antiseptic means using an antiseptic; aseptic means keeping clean. The difference is that antiseptic means the use of antiseptics which convey germs into minor wounds. Doctors and some nurses understand aseptic care. No layman, however, understands it.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed with the letter. Dr. Wm. Brady, Gazette.

SYNOPSIS

Thrown out of a job in his father's livery stable because of his laziness, George becomes a horse wrangler for Old Planter, rich and arrogant. The youth falls in love with Sylvia Planter, and when she falls from her horse, he kisses her. This brings on a fight. Morton leaves, goes to Princeton and determines on a college education. He makes the football team, studies with intense devotion and the aid of a tutor, George Bailey.

"I rather think I did," said the eyes George recognized the challenge he had last seen there. "Thanks for remembering me," he said rather in Wadsworth's manner. "A week ago Saturday," she began, "I was out for a walk, and I remembered a neighbor's apology. "Who could forget the great Morton?" Lambert laughed. "With a broken head in your hand, that was a hard thing to lose." "I'd heard," she said, "that you had been hurt." "That had been hurt," George would have preferred words as nearly as forgettable as those she had uttered with the day of the accident. She turned to Blodgett. George had an instinct to shake her as she chatted easily and casually, glancing at him from time to time. He could have borne it better if she didn't include him at all.

True Detective Stories THE BOMB PLOT

Tap—Tap—Tap! The knocking at the door of the house occupied by Charles von Kleist, in Brooklyn, was not peremptory, nor did it savor of stealthiness. During the silence which followed, the two men on the doorstep looked at each other inquiringly. Then, slowly, they knocked again. Tap—Tap—Tap! The door swung open, and from the inner recesses of a pitch-black hall, came a voice which inquired, in guttural German, "Who are you and what do you want?" "We come from the Wolf," was the reply. "He said that you would know what he wanted." "From the Wolf?" echoed the voice from within. "How do I know that you are not wolves yourselves?" "Low!" "This! Prove who we are," interrupted the man who had previously spoken, producing a card and slipping it past the stout chain which guarded the door. "Read and act," he continued. "When the door is open, it is a moment later the chain had been removed and the two men, their coats collared turned high, their hats pulled low, entered the room. The man who had just spoken had fastened the door and preceded them into a room where the tightly closed shutters effectually prevented any spying from the outside. The door did speak. It was merely to inquire their names. "Barnitz," replied one of the men—the one who had carried on the conversation with the stranger. "Barnitz," said the other. "Barnitz," the old man repeated. "That is the name of the Paterfamilias, a good name. But I know it is not English." "American," corrected the first of the strangers. "It would not do to use too many of our citizens in the matter of this case. We plan to use all kinds of people—that's how we fool these Yankers. Besides, should you doubt, there is the card from the Wolf. That bears both names." "That is so," agreed the German. "And Von Igel is not one to take any chances. He is too close to Von Tappen. For what were you sent here?" The Wolf wishes to be assured that everything is going smoothly. Then, after a moment's hesitation, during which he studied Von Kleist's face very carefully, "Have you completed the bombs?" "A few only. It will be simple to make the others. Come, I will show you." Through the winding, labyrinthine passages of the old house the German led them, and then out into the back yard—a tiny plot of ground barely a few feet square. "As you will note," he said, "we cannot be overlooked from any of the surrounding houses." The man called Barnitz, glancing up, saw that the German was right. Only the bare walls of warehouses frowned down upon them. As he looked, however, he seemed to catch a queer glint of sunlight refracted from a binocular.

Dinner Stories

"Yes," said the timid passenger to the aviator. "I understand I'm to sit still and not be afraid, and all that, but tell me, in case something happens and we start to fall, what do I do?"

"Aw, that's easy," said the big man. "Just grab anything we're passing and hang on tight!" "Why isn't the Hon. Howland Rave making a minute loyalty and conservation speeches?" "Oh, he feels that in four minutes he could not begin to enumerate his wonderful qualifications for the office for which he aspires."

"I hope my husband won't get involved into any games with those card sharps," said the loyal wife. "Oh, he'll know when they are trying to cheat him." "I'm not afraid of that, but you know, he's a sharpshooter!"

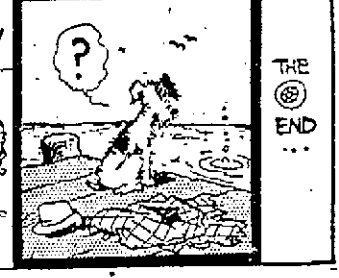

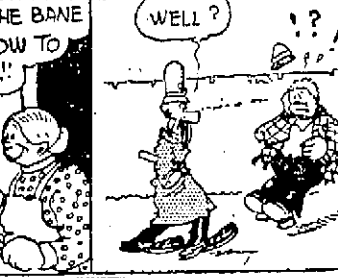

Two friends reached Waterloo station, London, only to find that one of them had missed his last train home. The other who lived in the Weybridge district, was more fortunate and insisted upon taking his friend along with him. "You mustn't mind a walk, old chap," he said, as they left Weybridge station. "My house is a good mile away." "Lead on," said his companion, and they forced it together. It was a bad night, raining in torrents, and they did the first three-quarters of a mile in comparative silence. Suddenly the host halted. "My son's up old boy," he inquired of his friend. "Up?" retorted the other. "I forgot. We moved to Reigate yesterday!"

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlyle H. Holcomb

"WHACK!" AND THE TERROR FAINTED Chief Porky is always watching for a chance to get away. But he knows that he cannot begin to run as fast as this fellow and it will be better for him to stay in the moonlight until there is a better chance. The only way the Chief knows anything about fighting is to hug the ground and be perfectly still. His thorn-quills are his only weapons, and when anyone picks a fight with him in the forest he stays close to the ground, straightens up his quills and stays there till the enemy passes on. Reddy Fox was a friend of the Chief and when he saw there was danger ahead he sprang in the moonlight and nipped this larger fellow on the hip. Then he sprang into the shadows again. This fellow called his attention away from his victim, for the nip that Reddy gave him was intended to hurt, and Reddy carried away with him a small patch of fur. The creature groaned as he turned about to see Reddy Fox vanishing in the shadows. Did you see that? whispered the King to Silky. "Yes, I saw that and it was a good thing that Reddy did it. I would have done worse than that." "What would you do?" asked Tinker, being amused at such a statement. "I'll show you what I'll do if it happens again," Silky said. Well, it happened again, for this angry fellow knew he couldn't catch Reddy Fox so he took his anger out of poor Porky and he was soon turned over again. No sooner did his enemy turn him over than Silky sprang into the light of the moon and gave this furry terror a sound whack on the head with a stick.

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

Girls who work in offices almost always become round-shouldered and hollow-chested unless they take pulled closer to the desk, so as to keep her back a little straighter. My other suggestion is that she form the other girls in her office into a gymnasium class, to practice deep breathing and shoulder straightening exercises for 10 minutes during the lunch hour. Big business firms, realizing the value of this, are doing it for their own employes, but my suggestion is for the girl who works in a small office with two or three others and hasn't the benefit of the classes and gymnasiums the big concerns go in for. The exercises really should be taken outdoors or on a roof; but if this is impossible, a room with the windows opened will do. Five minutes should be given to deep breathing while the girls stand erect with hands resting on the hips, and five minutes should be devoted to exercises that make the arms swing and that bring the shoulders back, the head up and the chest out. Any book on gymnastics will give you plenty of suggestions. Every week or so there is something in this space about just such exercises as these. If you can interest your fellow workers and keep them at it, your appearance will improve and your work will benefit and you will not have that cramped and aching feeling after a few hours at an office desk. Tuesday—A woman 30 years old 5 feet 3 inches, should weigh 120 pounds. C. O. R.—A girl 17, 5 feet 4 1/2 inches, should weigh 123 pounds. You are nearly 20 pounds overweight. I would not advise you to take any quick reduction method, but to exercise and diet until you are the proper weight. Tall heavy—Cocoa butter can be purchased in 5 and 10 cent cakes at practically all drug stores. When slightly warmed, it massages easily. If you are underweight, you can fill out the arms, legs and chest more easily by taking a little extra nourishment every day. Tuesday—Surplus Weight

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
This is a Good Way to Poach Eggs—Place a large spoon in a pan of rapidly boiling water. Slide egg into spoon first, and after cooking an instant, gently slide into bottom of pan.
SUGGESTIONS
Peanut Butter Variations—1. A can of best peanut butter, add an equal amount of hot water, bit of salt, one tablespoon of good oil; cook, stirring constantly. Result: A creamy peanut butter.
2. Mix with best grade of peanut butter an equal amount of tart, unsweetened apple sauce.
3. One can of peanut butter, equal amount of olive oil (or good substitute); mix. Result: A rich, soft-peanut butter.
4. Add an equal amount of mayonnaise salad dressing to peanut butter.
5. One-half pound peanut butter, one tablespoon each of prepared mustard, catsup and oil. Mix.
6. Mix an equal amount of thick strained honey and peanut butter. An excellent spread for bread.

Listen, World! By ELSIE ROBINSON

I went to a Mothers' meeting the other day. They were discussing the Degeneracy of Modern Fashions. Then up rose Mrs. Stebbins and said—"My Theodore and Herbert are going to the Union High School. Ever since they were babies I've trained those boys to respect women. The other day I heard them making horrid remarks about some girls. I scolded them and they told me about the way the girls go about wearing their clothes. They said they were going to teach our boys to respect girls when the girls are so immodest!"

You can stop your boys making horrid remarks about girls, Sister, only by stopping horrid things yourself and teaching your boys reverence with bare shoulders. The Mother of Christ wore no stockings. Degeneracy of Modern Fashions. Then up rose Mrs. Stebbins and said—"My Theodore and Herbert are going to the Union High School. Ever since they were babies I've trained those boys to respect women. The other day I heard them making horrid remarks about some girls. I scolded them and they told me about the way the girls go about wearing their clothes. They said they were going to teach our boys to respect girls when the girls are so immodest!"

We're certain that the public feels quite friendly toward us. We feel sure that we've tried to please and our business friends and acquaintances assure us that we have succeeded. Cleanliness is next to Godliness and we're on speaking terms with public appreciation. GEORGE & CLEMONS PLUMBERS 407 W. Milwaukee St. Bell 469. Rock, 506. Agents for Arcolia Heating Plants.

I.M. BOSTWICK & SONS. DO vs. DON'T

A man sought a position for his son in the establishment of a business acquaintance. He listed all the things his model offspring didn't do. When he was through the prospective employer said:

"That's all right as far as it goes. But it is purely negative. Now tell me what he DOES do. That is, what counts most here."

From infancy our pathway is strewn with "don'ts." There are school don'ts, business don'ts, summer don'ts, winter don'ts, golf don'ts,—practically everything is religiously don't-ed. Pray tell us, somebody, what to DO! No man ever got very far merely by learning what not to do.

In conducting a store, the way to success lies in learning to DO things better from day to day.

Weekly Livestock
Review

Chicago, Jan. 15.-The week at a lower level than a week ago, and many sales at the close were a big factor in the decline. The market was practically all lost by the Monday closing level, and there was a fair recovery Wednesday and Thursday, which was practically all lost by the close of Friday. Saturday there were a few loads of steers on sale and the few buyers that could be found were not particularly active. The day's arrivals of steers finally sold about 35c lower and showed a sharp loss from the base line Friday morning.

The average price of a good beef cattle advanced to $7.15 this week, but was $2.50 under the average for the week for the years 1911 to 1921, inclusive.

Quotations for low grade killing steers and native beef cattle follow:
Inferior killing steers.....$5.50-6.00
Med. to good cows.....$5.50-6.00
Good to choice cows.....$6.00-6.50
Choice to prime.....$6.50-7.00
Prime to select.....$7.00-7.50
Select to extra.....$7.50-8.00
Extra to choice.....$8.00-8.50

COMMUNITY INVESTMENT CORPORATION

Janesville Offers You the Chance To Look Beyond Your Job

John W. Dady, J. P. Cullen, Lucian O. Holman and Others Form the Community Investment Corporation of Janesville. You Become Investor in Solid Enterprises, Start a New Savings Account, Cover Your Life and Disability Insurance, All On Small Monthly Payments

We invite you to become a stockholder in a Janesville business corporation.

At the same time to start a new savings account.

And in the same operation cover your life and disability insurance.

How Far Do You Look Beyond Your Job?

In every Janesville home, from rich to poor, there is a John and a Mary and the "children." When John goes to the office or the factory every morning, here are the thoughts in the back of his head:

- (1) Bread and butter for today. Just a job.
- (2) Something to take care of them if I die.
- (3) Something for the rainy day.
- (4) Something to help us to the easier things in life.

And so, after you are sure of bread and butter for the day—after you are secure in your job—life and disability insurance is the next logical thought in your mind. For whether or not we welcome the insurance agent's visit, it may be that he is supplying the means of providing bread and other necessities for our dear ones in their time of need.

And after adequate life and disability insurance—a savings account, to provide for the future.

But you have never seen a man get to the easy things in life—the luxuries—solely on a savings account. Of course, the savings account is the start. You cannot do anything without that nest egg. But—suppose you have $50 to invest right now, or $100 or $200.

Where will you put it?

Will it make money for you, that $50?

You don't know, do you?

And there are hundreds of other men and women in Janesville just like you.

And there are hundreds of others who haven't the $50 in cold cash.

The difference between you and the richest man in the world is simply a matter of degree. If you have $50, there is not as much difference between you and he as there is between you and the fellow without a cent to invest.

The minute you begin to make money work for you, you multiply the brains and the hands that are providing for your old age and the comfort of your family.

You Become a Capitalist

The Community Investment Corporation will do, with you, what perhaps you may not have yet done through your own efforts.

It will make a capitalist out of you—a stockholder in the corporation—with money that you would ordinarily be putting away in a savings account at 3% a year, or that you would be paying out for insurance. But it gives you all of these at the same time—a savings account, an investment, and an insurance policy.

For a small sum per month you get:

- (1) A stock certificate in the Community Investment Corporation.
- (2) A savings account.
- (3) A Life Insurance Policy.

The Bank of Southern Wisconsin will be the depository for all money paid in. It will be the fiscal agent and will pay to the National Guardian Life Insurance Company of Madison, Wisconsin, all payments on life insurance.

$500 Savings + $500 Stock + $1000 Life Insurance and Disability Protection. For instance, at the age of twenty, you pay $9.30 each month. At the end of ten years you will have (1) Five shares ($500.00) full paid, non-assessable stock in the Community Investment Corporation, plus such dividends as may have been declared; (2) a savings account amounting to $500.00, plus the dividends earned on your life insurance policy; (3) a $1000.00 Life and Disability Insurance policy with a continually increasing cash value, at a low cost which decreases annually through dividends.

This Thousand Dollar Insurance policy will pay up the total amount of your savings-investment contract if you die and, if you are disabled, it will pay ten dollars a month.

The Community Investment Corporation holds out to you such a business opportunity—an opportunity that is based on the simplest of true and tried business operations.

The investment privilege with the gain that follows has previously been for the chosen few.

The Minute You Sign, That Minute You Participate

The outstanding thing about this plan is the fact that the minute you sign these papers, you make your start as an investor and as a capitalist. The minute you put before yourself the goal, you are assured of that goal.

And nobody can take it away from you. All you need to do is to keep up the small payments which will impose no hardship on you.

What Will This Investment Company Do?

The Company's charter enables it to engage in many business undertakings. It can buy real estate, mortgages, erect buildings and loan money—a privilege available to its subscribers. Its purpose will be to make money available for local business enterprises, both in first mortgages and land contracts—to encourage home building particularly, by making money available.

Your guarantee of management that will be efficient, honest, progressive and successful, is found in the facts that: (1) The men who are organizing this Company—and those who are listed as temporary officers—have records which you can check to your entire satisfaction; (2) That the Company will be entirely mutual in its operation.

And you will be a mutual sharer in this Corporation. Your dollar will mean as much as the other fellow's dollar, but your dollar clubbed together with the other fellow's dollar, will engage in enterprises which otherwise would take you many years to participate in.

For the Man of Moderate Means

This enterprise is for the man of moderate means, who is on his way to success. It is performing a valuable function in this community. It is getting to the original source of a great percentage of the real wealth of this community and it is permitting that wealth to make money for its possessors.

It is the plan to sell the stock in units of five shares, making it a real community enterprise, participated in by the largest possible number of small investors.

To Be Backed By Hundreds of Citizens

This investment will be backed by hundreds of citizens of Janesville.

The prime movers are listed here, as men whom you know to be representative citizens.

No Commissions Are Paid to Anyone for Sale of Stock

It must be said right here, that the stock in this Corporation is to be sold without commission to anyone.

Women to Participate

In all features of this plan, including the insurance, women may participate on the same basis as men. Women who have attempted to secure standard old line life insurance will appreciate the value of this privilege.

Temporary Offices

The offices of the Investment Corporation are temporarily located in the Bank of Southern Wisconsin. These offices will be open both day and evening, all of next week.

You are cordially invited to call and secure more detailed information. The actual sale of stock will not start until Wednesday.
